THROUGH ACTIVITIES...

Anxiety—the reward of attending sports events.

Respect—the intangible activity in which students took part.

Surprise—Christmas in November. Students were planners of many surprising things.

Work—an activity requiring a major portion of the students' time.

Cheerful—the personality so easy to find at MHS in work as well as in play.

Playful—the ever present trait in students which revealed itself to the fullest on Halloween.

Humorous and serious—the mixture of two personalities that support each other at MHS.

STUDENTS ARE very deceiving people. They complain about their studies, but work hard to do them. They worry about exams and yet they joke about a low grade. They are bored with fundamental details and interested only in the unusual. They like to laugh or have fun in almost any fashion, but they also like to confine themselves to developing projects or term papers.

They have reasons for everything, but most of all they enjoy learning to live.

These ways will be seen inside the 1961 OLYMPIAN.

it will be meant just for you. Will enjoy yourself in Jackson-in touch through the coming years.

STANDARDS MAINTAINED IN

J. F. Shaw

Marietta High School continues to be a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This means that it operates on a basic educational philosophy with specific outlined objectives. To see that this philosophy and these objectives are maintained, capable personnel function in a variety of ways.

First on the list of school personnel is the Board of Education. This group consists of six men who are appointed by the City Council of Marietta. They convene once a month to study school business and to check the effectiveness of the overall school program.

Mrs. Fred Swain
Curriculum Director

An important phase of administration is the planning of all school activities. Mr. Cox and Mr. Griffin spent hours daily in this.

QUALITY EDUCATION

To carry out the program set up by the school board this year, there had to be excellent supervisors. These were our Superintendent, Henry Kemp; Curriculum Director, Mrs. Fred Swain; Principal, Loyd Cox; and Assistant Principal, George Griffin. Never did this close knit group lose sight of its responsibilities.

It has been through these people that we have progressed to our present status. It will be because of them that we, too, will be capable leaders of our community and state.

Many students at MHS learn the practical use of typing from one of our experienced typing teachers, Miss Williams or Mr. Amacker.

MANY BUSINESS

In this era of business, opportunity knocks for everyone, but especially for students at MHS who are instructed by the skilled teachers of business and commercial education.

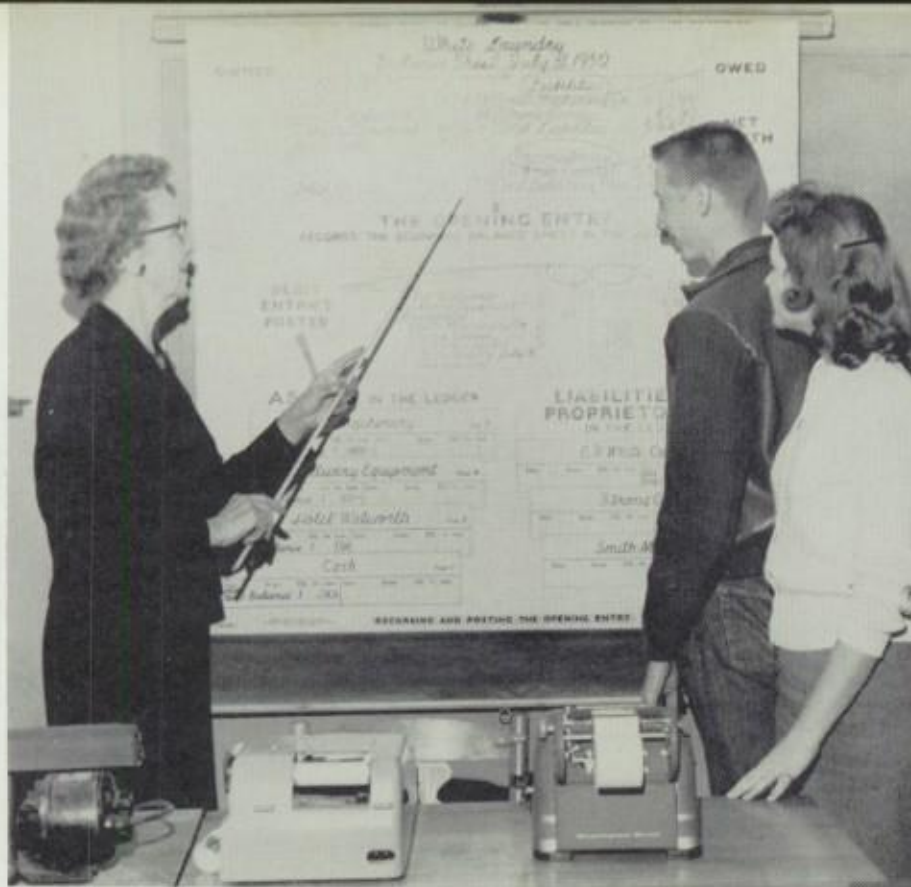

Commercial training began with Robert Ross Amacker and fdsajkl;12345 in first year typing, and in collaboration with that typewriting speed-demon, Miss Joanne Williams in advanced typing. In parallel with these two were Miss Mary Ellen Smith and Mrs. Charles Sergent. They taught shorthand, business arithmetic, business law and the office practice classes.

This year Virginia Rose Dorman gained practical experience in business as an aide to Mrs. Wall.

The pupils in this bookkeeping class look interested as Miss Smith explains procedures.

All business students at one time or another take business arithmetic from Mrs. Sergent.

STUDENTS AID OFFICE

Business teachers were responsible for help given to the administrators in recording statistics, typing reports, and filing records. It was they who accommodated many teachers in the details of school business. Through them their students received practical experience for securing jobs upon graduating or for business specialization.

The business era should certainly increase its boom when trained students from the MHS business department become the leaders of our community.

Thanks to our capable teacher personnel in the department of business!

THE FINE ARTS

Fine arts at MHS offered means of expression for students interested in art and music.

Miss Ruth Ogden, long recognized as an outstanding choral director, worked with various choral groups to develop in them basic concepts and skills of music.

Since the task of a true musician or artist is to produce artistic consciousness in others, it seems that Willis Strother and Boyd McKeown set this as their goal long ago.

DEVELOP CULTURE

Mr. Strother, being an aesthetic person himself, was able to capitalize on talents of students in teaching artistic skills.

Mr. McKeown was around to further develop artistic consciousness. His musical and teaching abilities were seen through personal and professional contributions to the school program.

We can thus ascertain that this year of music and art at MHS was a big milestone in the future development of a true fine arts program.

D'Ann seems to be deeply absorbed in her art work.

Mrs. William All

With eleven teachers to boast, the department of languages successfully accomplished the teaching of English to all MHS students, and of French and Latin to students pursuing the classical course of study.

To gain a typical glimpse of the work done by these eleven teachers is to recall the many times that Mesdames Mac Wolfe's and Mary Lewis' sophomore and senior students of English dressed themselves like Flappers from the 1920's to explain various uses of the dictionary; like Hansel and Gretel to convey original compositions; like characters from Tom Dooley to demonstrate prose writing; or like children to depict the meanings of stories studied in literature. Aside from the drama involved in English, one can recall the debates used by Miss Voncile Compton to teach juniors all about styles of writing and histories of compositions. At the same time one remembers that Miss Clara Nolen enriched junior English with her slides from Europe.

Correlating the junior and senior English class activities were the undertakings in freshman and sophomore English classes. These included skits, public speaking, and written compositions.

Mrs. Murphy looks on as Peggy Holcomb works unceasingly on her English notebook.

CONVERSATION, COMPOSITION

Mr. Goodwin stressed grammar and composition in his freshman English classes.

Teaching freshman English were three effective teachers, all newcomers to Marietta High School. Mrs. Mary Murphy brought refreshing ideas to the students from her former residence, Denver, Colorado. Mrs. Eleanor All, previously in Hawaii, evidenced this in her skilled approach to English.

In reminiscing language teaching, one now thinks of the classes of foreign languages, French and Latin. Miss Glenda Gibbs instructed students in first year French while Mrs. Carolyn Morris took over instruction in advanced French.

AND DRAMA

Mr. Robert Baker capitalized on composition and pronunciation of vocabulary to teach Latin. He, too, was new to Marietta High School this year.

As is true of most dedicated teachers, the instructors of languages were sponsors of various school clubs, assistants in the athletic programs, and active participants in church and community projects. They were found to be very talented in music, art, and athletic abilities.

Marietta High School was fortunate to acquire a language department so able, enthusiastic and versatile.

MATH HAS

The new approach to the teaching of mathematics seems to be a bit bewildering to many teachers, but not so at MHS. The math department's faculty obviously kept abreast of newer approaches for the students of math did not doubt that those figures and numbers were strange sights to behold.

The capable freshman algebra teachers, Miss Bessie Sanford and Mrs. Pat Aiken completely aroused their students to the fact that a knowledge of mathematics is necessary to become specialists in any field of work. Then there were the struggling juniors and seniors succumbing to the mechanics of algebra, geometry, and trigonometry being taught them by Mesdames Helen Hancock, Nell Vickrey, and Edna Lee.

NEW APPROACH

To be able to inform students of newer mathematics, all teacher personnel read professional books and magazines and attended math seminars given by visiting math specialists from various colleges and universities. In addition, Mrs. Vickrey attended a math institute at Emory University throughout the school year.

Besides being competent classroom teachers, this group of people was active in other aspects of school and community living: in Y-work, in FTA, in civic projects, and in professional work.

These teachers of math can be credited with outstanding achievements also through their graduated students, many of whom make unusual advancements in college math courses.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical education is being stressed greatly at the high school level, because it has been found that a sound body is essential to learning. With that thought in mind, the physical education department and the athletic department were organized to develop in students at MHS physical dexterity as well as qualities of sportsmanship.

Mrs. Martha Webb instructed classes in health which all students in physical education were required to take. This course included units of family living, home care of the sick, public health services and others.

The physical education classes were instructed by French Johnson, chairman of the athletic department and head coach of the football team, worked closely with the physical education teachers so as to correlate the teaching of physical skills with development of special athletic ability.

Many students from Marietta have received college scholarships for their achievements in athletics. The P.E. department has helped to make this possible.

SCIENCE

Science education has changed so greatly within the past few years it has been a task for many instructors of the sciences to meet challenges which now face them. However, at MHS the science teachers met these challenges and actually integrated the revised approach to science into class room teaching. The secret of this accomplishment seems to be that they all possess an extreme interest in science and have a desire to acquire knowledge of scientific advancement as it happens.

Evidences of the teacher interests were shown in that the science faculty attended district and state science seminars. They were members of the National Science Teachers' Association. Four of the six teachers had received grants for graduate study from the National Teachers of science taught scientific principles, not only through classroom techniques, but also through science projects which were displayed at the local science fair—a great undertaking, but one that brought many rewards.

The science department is to be commended for its part in training future scientists and in teaching appreciation and better understanding of the world in which we live.

During this year, national, state, and local elections were held. Never let it be said that the Marietta High School student body was unaware of this important phase of citizenship! Throughout the school buildings and among the students, booster buttons, posters, and slogans for favorite candidates were seen. Largely responsible for this interest in world affairs was the department of social studies. All its teachers were well versed in this category as well as in past history and social conditions.

Miss Martha Lou Gable and Dan Theodocian inspired the freshmen throughout the year in civics, while Miss Marie Brooks and Miss Virginia Odum, chairman of the social studies department, taught world history to sophomores.

Harrison Anderson and Kermit Keenum allowed such rash statements as: "I'm for Kennedy" and "Nixon is best" to be heard coming from the audio visual room during their heated debates on the presidential candidates.

Good citizenship in students resulted from the thorough coverage of past and present events taught them by the efficient teachers of social sciences.

VOCATIONAL

The vocational department of Marietta High School consists of courses in homemaking and general shop. How well these courses were taught will be seen in future adults who received instruction.

Mrs. Mary Higgins, chairman of the vocational department, was responsible for many of those well tailored dresses and suits which advanced homemaking girls modeled; for those hunger-provoking aromas which drifted from the kitchen on many occasions; and for beautiful decorations and furniture arrangements seen in the homes.

Across the hall from Mrs. Higgins was Miss

TRAINING OFFERS VARIETY

Charlotte Dilbeck, instructing beginning homemakers in the ways of young adults at home. She prepared her students for more advanced homemaking, and also radiated knowledge in the areas of home entertaining, etiquette, family relations, and home decorations.

Robert Roe taught the general shop course. He instigated those loud noises beneath the gymnasium—the results of boys learning to build furniture, to handle machines, and to repair appliances.

These three persons definitely contributed in building a core for our future community.

Parent - teacher conferences were held to discuss home projects.

Robert C. Roe

Mrs. Lee arrived at school every morning at seven o'clock eager for work.

Certainly Alline isn't crying nor Mrs. Lee scolding her. The two are simply perplexed over details of college questionnaires for seniors.

The achievement testing program was administered by guidance counselors.

STUDENTS

The Marietta High School guidance department is composed of two counselors, Mrs. Edna Lee and Mrs. Louise White; a consultant nurse, Mrs. Pauline Williams; and a visiting teacher, Miss Shelia Russell. They were chosen for their professional qualifications, their interest in guidance activities, and for their interest in individual student problems. These four people are recognized as the guidance department itself, but they are assisted in many ways by homeroom teachers.

Miss Shelia Russell serves MHS through visitations.

"It's my turn." Students waited to see their counselors.

It was practical of Sue to get Mrs. Williams to demonstrate mechanics of operating an audiometer since she herself plans to become a nurse.

Mrs. White proved this year, her first in counseling, that she's qualified for the job.

PROFIT FROM GUIDANCE

Mrs. Williams worked in areas where problems of health were concerned. She enabled students to get x-rays and audio and visual tests without cost.

Miss Russell, the visiting teacher, was responsible for checking truancy or other problems which affected student attendance.

This department was small, yet these four people evidently did their jobs well. Guidance is a vital necessity to student maturation, which is to say, these people are indispensable.

Mrs. Pauline Williams deals with health problems at MHS.

Engrossed is not the word to describe the concentration necessary for Mrs. White and Judy to work on schedules.

Mrs. Jesse Wall prevented many headaches over business.

Mrs. Owenby was the efficient secretary who kept tabs on finances.

Mrs. Tilley was never without a job, for she served the busy Mr. Kemp.

To be business manager of the Marietta School System requires great efficiency—and Mr. Lance had this!

Mrs. Hogan believes in feeding people balanced meals. That's why she enjoys being lunchroom supervisor.

"Cleanliness next to godliness" was the slogan of our maintenance crew, it seems. They certainly kept MHS clean!

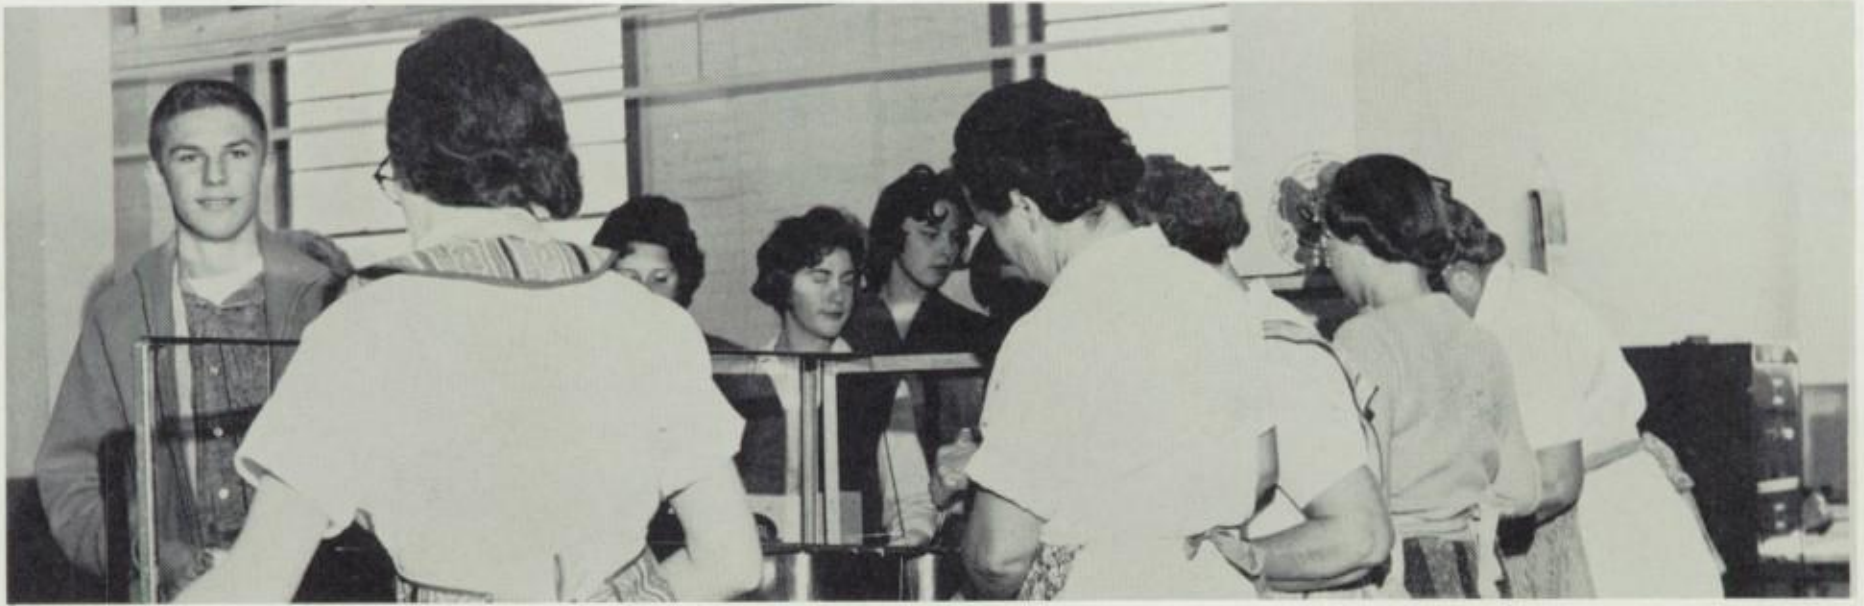

MHS ASSISTED

There were many people working for MHS this year in the capacities of supervisor, maintenance chairman, business manager, and secretary—indispensable to the operation of our school system.

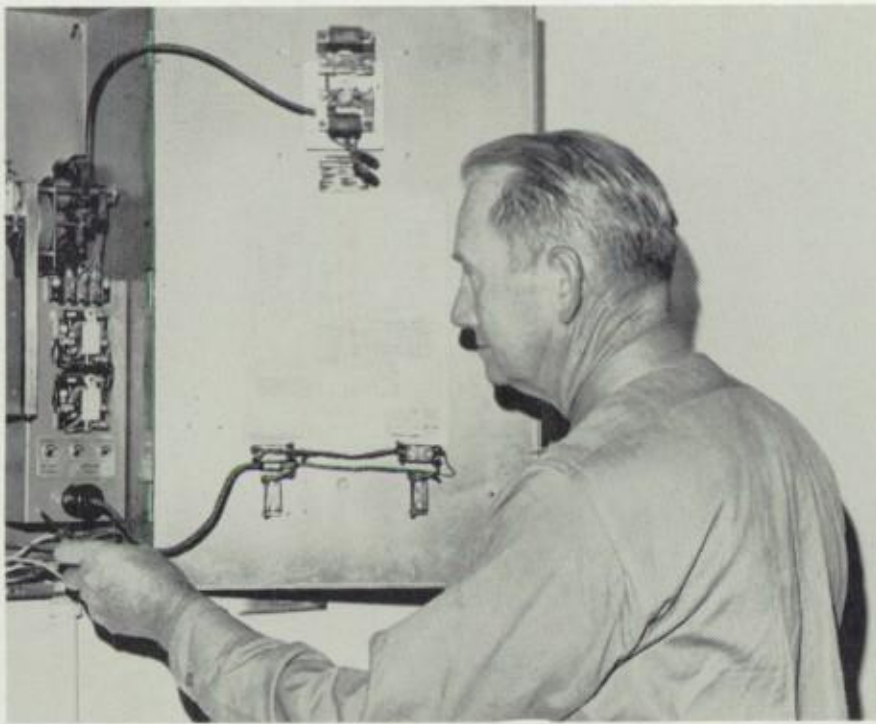

Supervising the lunchroom program was Mrs. Helen Hogan. She was always on hand as an adviser to clubs or individuals who needed her services.

Managing the maintenance of the entire city school plant was S. S. Beasley, a man who is a combination of electrician, painter, carpenter, mechanic and diplomat. Various maintenance crews worked for him.

Food at last! Students could hardly endure the unmerciful misery induced by hunger each day during third period, for they knew that expert homemakers were preparing hot lunches for them.

Mr. Beasley was valuable to MHS. He solved as many problems for teachers as students solved in algebra.

"Don't worry, I'll get my food," Cliff's expression seems to suggest. Danny and Terry assist in serving him.

BY MANY

One person who handled the details of school business was Iebby Lance, Jr. who completed his first year in the superintendent's office as business manager. Assisting him were secretaries, Mrs. Barbara Tilley and Mrs. Frances Owenby. Mrs. Evelyn Norris assisted the curriculum director.

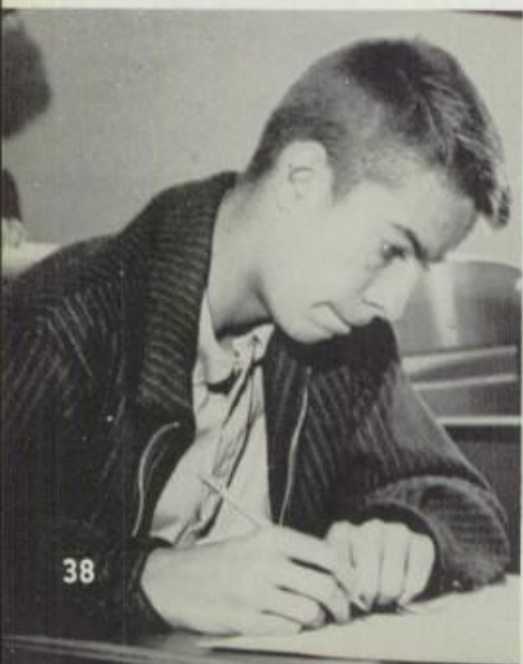

The special person who handled business at MHS was Mrs. Maydell Wall. This dynamic woman did a great deal for the students and faculty.

Within any well organized program there are many who work together for its benefit. This group was a necessary part of Marietta High School.

Mrs. Norris was quite busy this year as secretary to Mrs. Swain, director of curriculum.

LEADERS

These seniors, Linda Wall, Linda Smith, Barbara Smith, Lloyd Shankles, Gary Cavitt, and Tim Mulligan, represent a few leaders of their class.

The class of 1961 found its last year at MHS full of trials and decisions. The new state rule required seniors to have eighteen units in order to graduate. To aid them in attaining these credits, a new course, political science, was added to the curriculum.

During their last year, the seniors enjoyed many activities which helped them make correct decisions for their futures. The Civitans and Kiwanians provided a program and lunch for them on two occasions. The annual Career Day found seniors well-dressed and interested in its offerings to them. Speakers representing many colleges and universities on College Day assisted seniors in making continued education.

The school activity bringing all seniors to the culmination of twelve years of study was the long-awaited for, but ever so near, graduation. It is this event that makes every graduate remember what MHS has done for him and hope that he can repay his alma mater by becoming a responsible citizen.

Christmas in November? Naturally. Mr. Strozier told his physics classes their first lab would be held on Christmas Eve. Everyone has a tree on Christmas Eve, so Mr. Strozier's helpful students decorated his room.

The art students look forward to the time of day when they attend art class. Dottie Golden, Joyce Chandler, Jane Glover, and Julie Burn demonstrate only a few phases of the varied art program.

"John, didn't you think Mrs. Wolfe's joke was funny? Bonita, Alline, and Kissy did." Mrs. Wolfe's senior English classes have very interesting discussions—thanks to her excellent wit and sense of humor.

"What is this? Oh, it must be some students acting out a scene from Macbeth." Mrs. Lewis' English classes made projects concerning Macbeth. Susan Stanton, Marilyn Mayes, and Sue Roberts acted out this "sleepwalking scene."

The title of upperclassmen was bestowed upon 233 juniors this year, after a year of being conspicuous in achieving high scholarship, in participating in co-curricula activities, and in displaying good citizenship.

In attaining high scholastic averages, forty-four of the juniors were inducted as members of Beta Club. The majority of them were active in Y-clubs, as well as in service clubs and special interests clubs. Both boys and girls participated in a variety of varsity sports. Several juniors were chosen for high school institutes for summer study at different colleges. Others were outstanding leaders in student government and musical organizations.

As a climax to their new status, juniors can plan for a more rewarding year ahead as seniors of 1962. Their goals can be high, for they show indications of reaching them.

Miss Nolen's smile is sincere—always. This capable adviser has given invaluable aid to the junior class through the years.

Circles, circles, circles—those wheels are rapidly spinning as geometry students learn to bisect the arc of a circle.

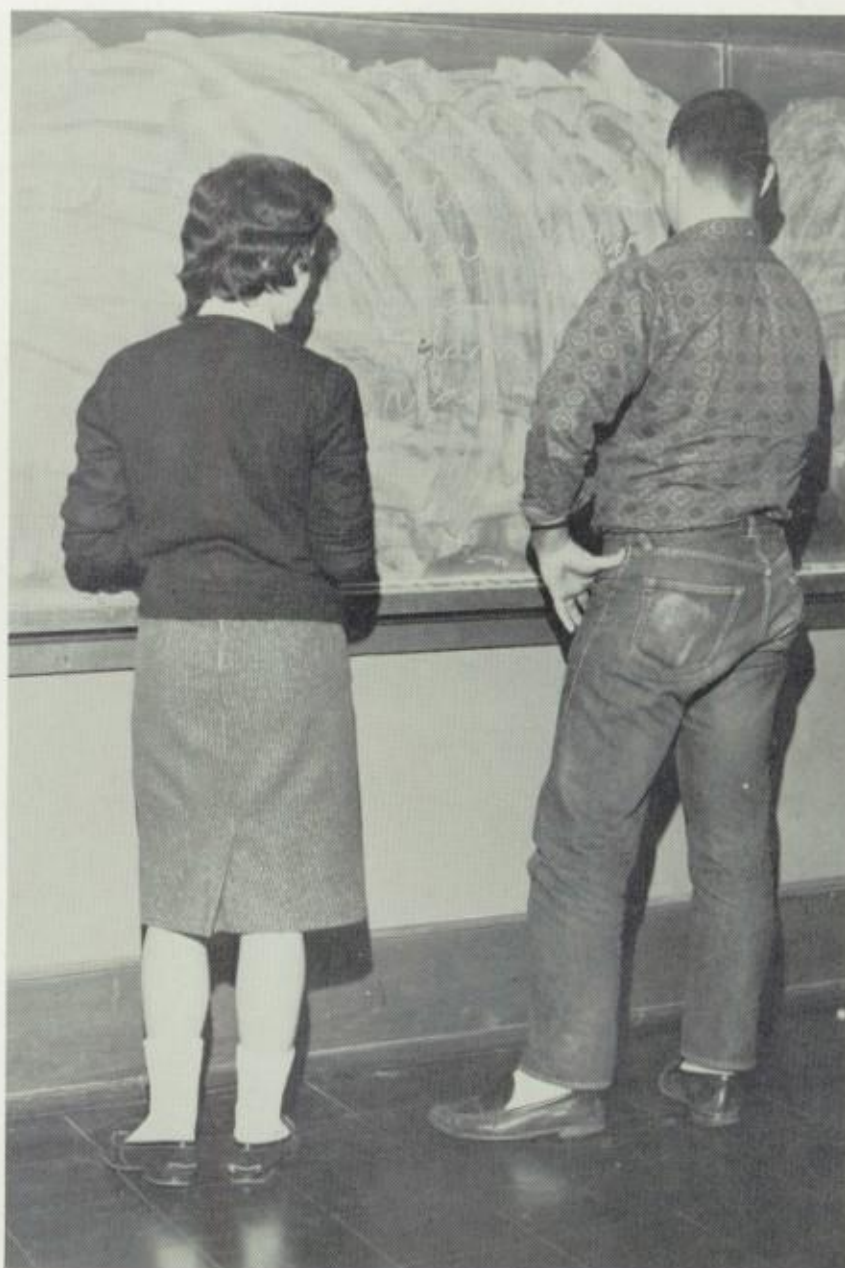

Bewildered? Yes, Peter is confused about Latin, English, chemistry, and every other little problem confronting juniors.

"Aw, Cliff, you know you aren't supposed to filter pure, unadulterated hydrogen oxide!" Comments such as this one by Joe were often heard in the chemistry lab as students learned through experimentation.

Janet is busy during homeroom doing her sentences and definitions for her spelling course. Every student finds this a vital part of his learning.

Marty and Quill can conjugate Latin verbs and decline Latin nouns; they just can't keep the chalk dust off their hands and clothes.

These girls know that Christmas decorations from sprigs of holly, bits of ribbon, and splashes of paint (mistletoe, too!) will be very useful for decorations in their homes during the holiday season.

SOPHOMORES BECOME UPPERCLASSMEN

The 240 sophomores found themselves in a year of transition from underclassmen to upperclassmen. Although they still took basic academic courses, they began to specialize, by means of electives, in their chosen courses of study—either scientific, classical, or commercial.

For the first time in their scholastic career, sophomores took the college board examinations which were offered, but mainly in a diagnostic capacity as practice for the senior year.

Sophomores were active in many phases of school life—in Y-clubs, in sports, in special interest clubs, and in service clubs. They also joined with the other classes to participate in homecoming, in the Valentine Ball, and many other activities.

As a result of increased participation in all school activities, the sophomores were ready to advance as juniors in 1962.

Although busy as a bee, Miss Gibbs was willing to take time from her schedule to be a capable sophomore class adviser.

Keeping 'cool in the pool' during physical education class, are the sophomore girls. They also benefit through learning how to swim. Mrs. Hipsher teaches this unit early in the year while the weather is sizzling. Their hair may look droopy sometimes but they do enjoy this unusual school activity.

Sophomores Can Remember

Writing backwards is a special art which all students do not acquire. But—Tommy and Kathy seem to have accomplished something unusual in their English class.

"Got a minute?" "Yes, four to be exact. I have to go from Winn Street to Brumby, but I'll talk to ya!"—typical sophomore class change.

"What? Another test? But I already have two tests tomorrow!" Nancy's exclamation was a familiar one for sophomores.

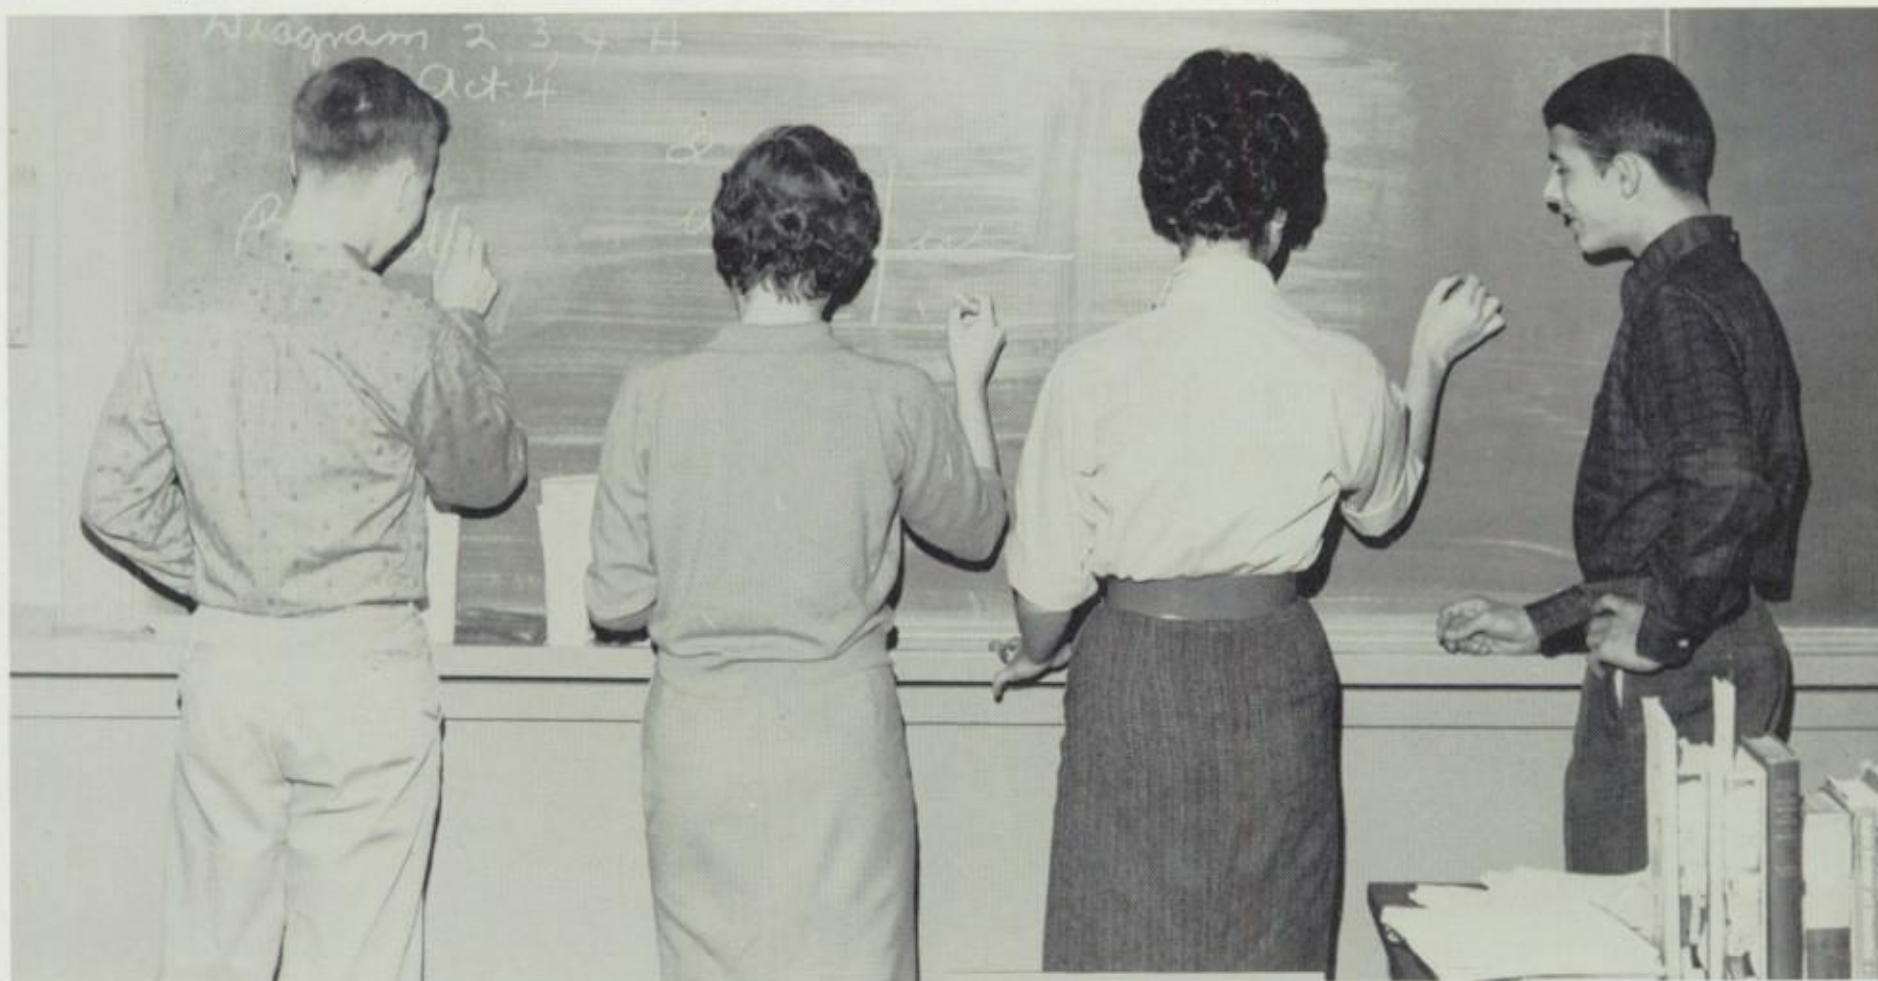

World history proves to be fun for these students in Miss Brook's class. Not only do they study history, but sophomores are usually busy making history as well.

An Active Year at MHS

Bill, don't laugh. You're supposed to be diagramming sentences, too. Correct grammar, only a small part of the English program for sophomores, was stressed in Mrs. All's class by diagramming all sentences correctly.

FRESHMEN ARRIVE AT MHS

The freshman class of 1960-61 entered Marietta High School as new students for the first time in many years. Because of the unfamiliarity of MHS and its program, these freshmen were subjected to a year of rigid learning both socially and academically. In addition to class procedures, they were given a series of tests, including mental maturity, reading, and language examinations. The results were used for student placement and to help students in choosing their courses of study.

Freshmen choose their future courses of study at the end of the year. This year's freshmen were fortunate in being able to have a series of speeches, films, and a library unit presented in the six week period of vocational guidance. This course introduced various professional and occupational trends as well as college requirements.

After a vigorous year's work, the freshmen were ready and anxious for their sophomore year to arrive.

The freshman class adviser, Miss Martha Lou Gable, has proven herself capable of outstanding leadership.

SCHOLARS EXCEL

Semifinalists were selected on basis of the sum total of the five standard scores on the subjects of the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, a rigorous three-hour test of educational development that is taken during the junior year.

After taking the College Board Entrance Examination in December and filling out the necessary information, the semifinalists became finalists.

The selection of the Merit Scholars from the finalists is a process combining test scores and human judgment.

Marietta High School has a reason for being proud of these nine finalists in the Merit Scholarship program—it placed second in the state according to the number of finalists from each school.

Top: Mike, Kathleen, Greta, and Jimmy take time out of studying for a laugh. Bottom: Hugh, Carolyn, Susan, and Judy thumb through the dictionary.

SPELLING CONTESTANTS SHOW ABILITY

Again this year, MHS participated in the statewide spelling contest. First, there was a spelling bee in each homeroom to choose the best speller who would then compete for spelling championship at MHS. The school winner then competed in a regional contest and finally went to the state spelling contest.

Dana Dale, through competitive spelling bees in schools and regional contests, went to the state spelling contest to represent Marietta High School. There she competed with contestants from other high schools in the state. In the Dr. M. D. Collins spelling competitions, the title of the state contest, held in Atlanta, Georgia, Dana was awarded a blue ribbon for first place.

Dana Dale, the MHS spelling representative, reviews several tricky words before entering the contest held in Atlanta.

The 1961 P-TA was capably led by Mr. Howard Ector, Mrs. Don Basham, Mr. Ross Reeves, and Mr. Jim Hoffer (not pictured).

Mrs. Laubacher is wearing a dunce hat because she came to Mr. Theodocian's class late on Parents' Night. She doesn't seem to mind because she knows it's all in fun.

P-TA ACTS

These chaperones provided by the P-TA, seem to be enjoying the festivities of the Homecoming Dance, which they helped to sponsor.

To be sure that quality education continued at MHS, the 550 members of Marietta P-TA chose as their theme for 1961 just that—Quality Education. Many things were involved in carrying out goals or plans which emphasized the theme, but two efforts in particular were noticeable.

The most conspicuous effort was the one that was not recognized as the hurricane-type effort but rather as a quiet, sincere act on the part of both teachers and parents. This was made especially through the legislative and study group committees, which maintained that public schools are important and that they must be continued in the future. Through these committees mentioned, the P-TA heard a discussion on the Sibley Report. This discussion was led by Newell Edenfield.

The second effort made by the parents and faculty was to foster better relations by holding several social functions during the year, and assisting at dances, parties, and other student activities.

the snack bar of the new Marietta Youth Center to make plans for the grand opening ceremonies.

TAC RENAMED

What has formerly been known as the Teen Age Canteen is now the Marietta Youth Center. The building for the Youth Center, which has been planned for three years, was officially opened in December with an open house for Marietta's teen-agers; however, the dedication ceremonies were held earlier. A program on the new Youth Center was presented in assembly.

The executive board was composed of a boy and girl from each grade in high school; an officer from the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes, and a boy and girl president from the senior class. The members, along with Mrs. Lizabeth Langworthy and Mrs. Barbara Williams, planned the social activities and program for the Youth Center.

This year it sponsored a dance after every home football game, but the Center's main project was its functional purpose—the provision of recreational activities, relaxation, and fun for Marietta students after school hours.

Sue McQuire, Clio Harshbarger, Julian Suggs, and Carole Noble, officers of the Marietta Youth Center, and Mr. and Mrs. Langworthy relax with a game of ping-pong.

Mr. Boyd McKeown spends a great deal of time in an effort to keep his band "the best."

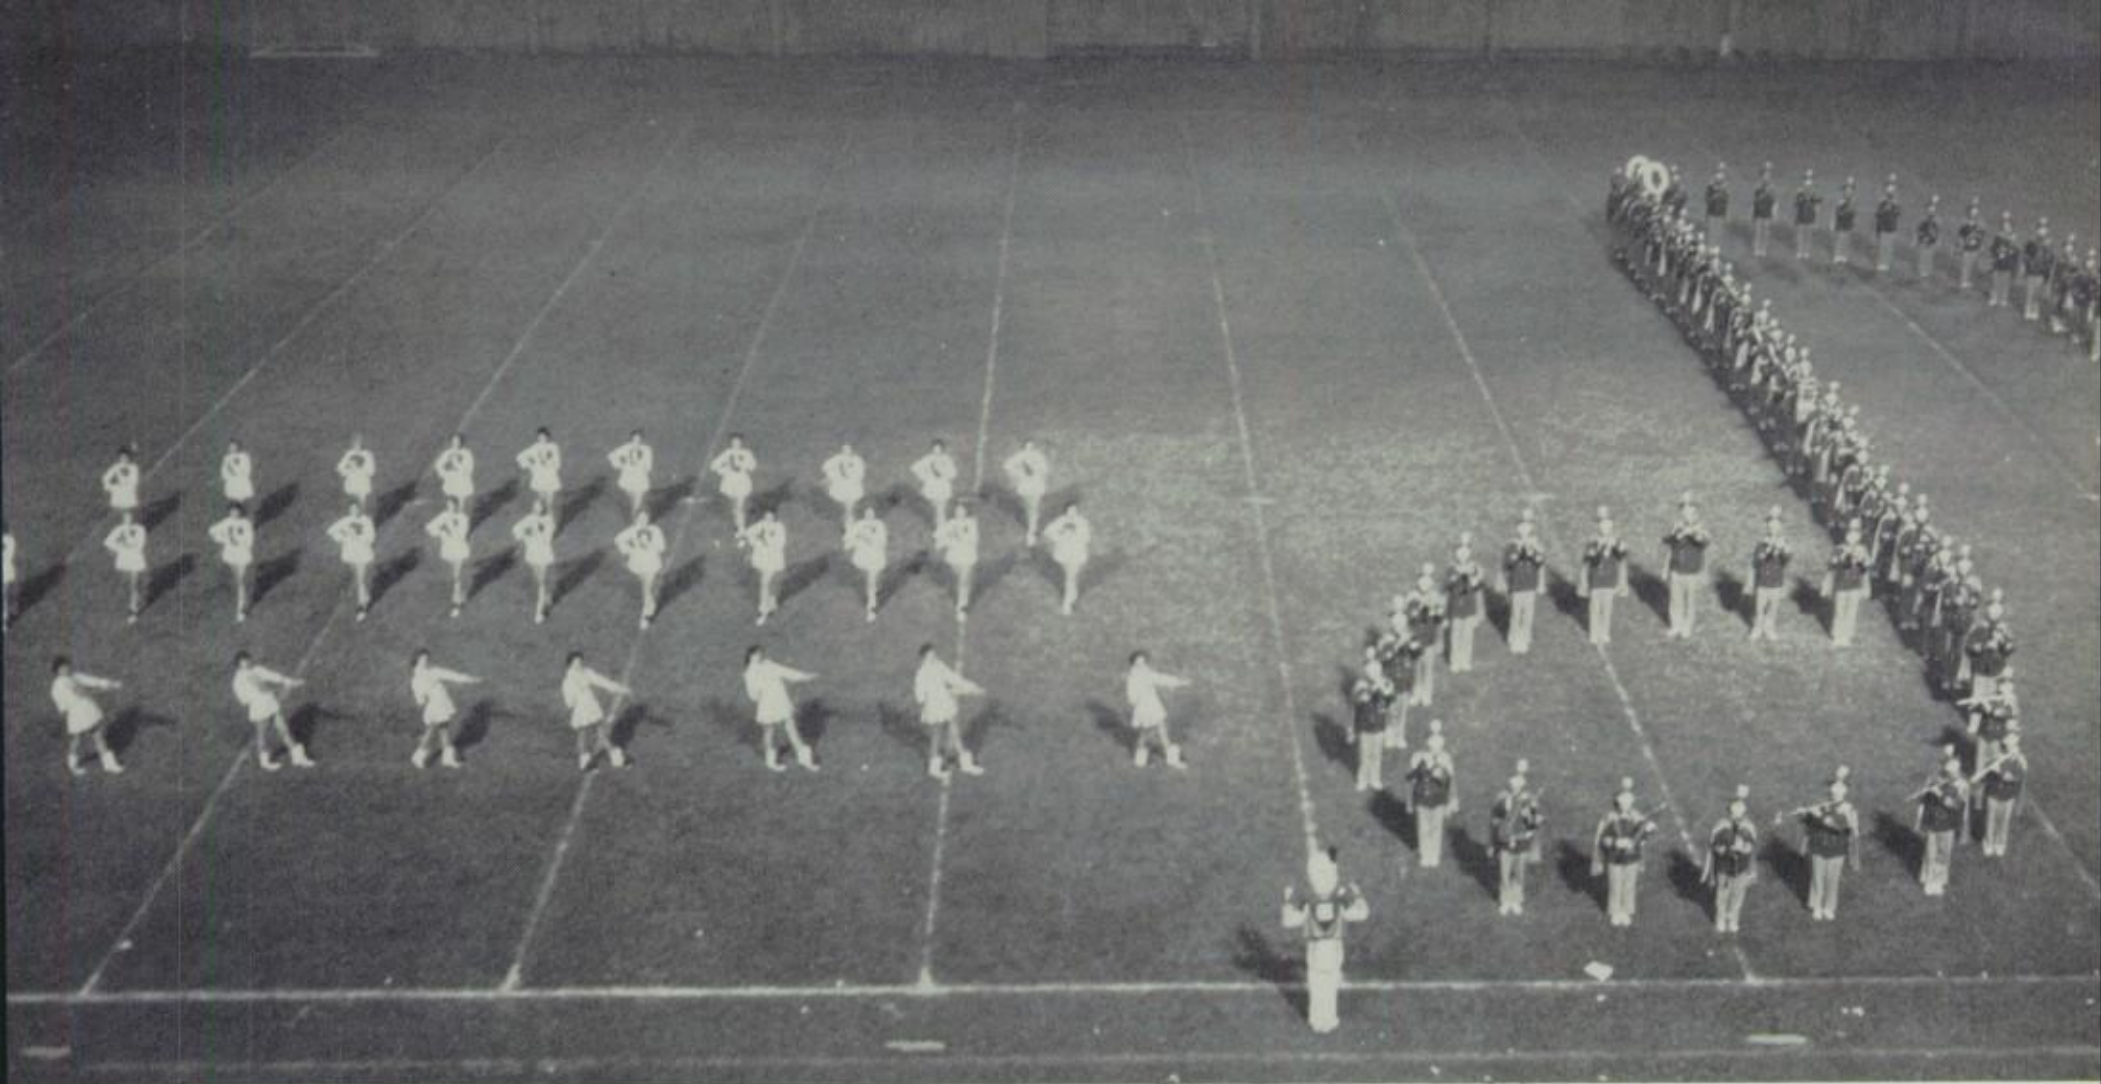

BAND BOOSTS MHS

The year 1960-61 at MHS has been enhanced by the many activities and contributions of the Blue Devil Band, which consisted of 63 members.

They appeared at all football games, presenting entertaining half-time shows and continually cheered our team to victory. They boosted student spirits at pep rallies and led the way in parades. Three chapel programs were presented by the band, which also provided small groups for several occasions.

After the show staff spent many hours working on the plans for this show, it took many additional hours of hard drill work and marching for the band to perfect this unusually colorful eighth note formation. The entire show had a musical basis for its make-up.

MAJORETTES STRIVE FOR PERFECTION

The Majorette squad, which was entirely new this year, was composed of five majorettes with Nancy Wallace in the lead, and one alternate, Faye Brendle. Not only was it required to be at every football game at home and out of town, but it also twirled for pep rallies, chapel programs, and parades

November ended the football season, but the best was yet to come—the music festival. The majorettes practiced many times under the careful instruction of Mrs. Polly Cooley in order to perfect their routines for the festival, where they received high ratings for solos and detailed ensembles.

MARIETTES INCREASE THEIR CORPS

The Mariettes had a large corps consisting of twenty four twirlers. In order to prepare for the many events planned for the year, co-captains Joyce Whittmeyer and Nancy Lambert represented the Mariettes at band camp in the summer.

They performed at all football games. The Russell game found the corps with new uniforms, where they did their well liked Ballin'-the-jack routine. The highlight of the year was the high rating received at the annual festival.

Both the Majorettes and the Mariettes perform in this half-time show called "Do Re Mi," one of the favorites of every spectator.

The Music Workshop had a full schedule in 1960-61. The group of twenty-four members was divided into the girls' ensemble, the mixed group, the boys' sextet, and the large girls' choir. It performed for many civic groups within the city, as well as for chapel programs. The group sang in annual concerts in December and April. Besides doing well in the music festival, some members were privileged to participate in the All-State Chorus, in which students from all over Georgia came to sing.

The Girls' Glee Club was made up of 47 girls this year, with Linda Sue Fields as accompanist and Pat Chambers as assistant accompanist. It had several rehearsals outside of class the year-round. In December, it had practices with the other music groups in preparation for the annual Christmas concert.

In April, the Glee Club was one of the main groups singing in the spring concert. It also participated in the music festival held in the spring, at which a high rating was achieved. Two ensemble groups performed for various organizations as well as taking part in the festival.

CHORUS LEARNS

The Beginning Chorus of 1960-61 spent the first part of the year in placing voices. Each member received a General Music Workbook which proved profitable to each pupil in learning about theory, the lives of composers, and other phases of music. They began training for future work in music by learning to use their voices and to sight read.

Officers Beverly Mlaska, Vicky Harden, Jimmy Johnson, and Jal Warne discuss the program they plan to present for the members a week in advance.

JR. MUSIC DISCUSSES

The Junior Music Club during 1960-61 provided listening enjoyment for its members as well as learning situations for students who excel in music, or those who derive pleasure from its entertainment. Besides listening to recordings by famous composers and symphonies, the members of Junior Music discussed the lives of various artists, and the moods for creating these compositions.

Pitchfork members Vicki Hardin, Sue Roberts, Harriett Ann Tumlin, Mike Stoddard, Marilyn Mayes, Jimmy Lewis, Janice Straight, Barbara Smith, Diane Wiley, Susan Stanton, Ginger

Abernathy, Joey Cotton, Judy Williams, Dana Dale, and Niki Fossett work very hard putting their Pitchfork together.

PITCHFORK HAS NEW LOOK

The last Friday of every month was a day of anticipation as everyone waited to see the Pitchfork, MHS newspaper. A major reason for such anticipation was the new-look given the paper by the 1961 staff—a nameplate to be exact.

The Pitchfork was first with the news. It covered the activities of clubs, music groups, athletic teams, classes, and administrative functions, as well as the awards and honors given by the school and other establishments. The paper contained excellent editorials which featured national, state, and community issues.

The new Pitchfork was highly approved by the student body and received honors from the Scholastic Press Association.

In addition to being adviser of the Pitchfork, Miss Compton taught the staff journalism.

Jimmy Lewis, Mike Stoddard, and Hariett Ann Tumlin plan the pictures to be taken at the next football game.

Dana Dale, Joey Cotten, Judy Williams, and Janice Strait are reporters on the staff.

Marilyn Mayes and Barbara Smith check the editorial for the next issue of the Pitchfork.

Vickie Hardin, Sue Roberts, Diane Wiley, and Susan Stanton work very hard securing ads for the Pitchfork.

Greta Little, feature editor, and Niki Fossett, her assistant, delighted the students with their features.

Ann Cogburn, Judy Hicks, Linda Roach, Kitty Hames, Bonnie Bonner, Linda Wall, Claire Franklin, Kyle Palmer, Angie Shaw, Nan Lucas, Gary Cavitt, Alice Barron, and James Merritt are the

staff who put the Olympian together. Man! Dig those expressions! These many weird faces were a result of tedious deadlines which kept the midnight oil burning until wee hours.

Kyle Palmer, editor of the Olympian, helps Linda Roach, assistant editor, keep a record on all the students.

OLYMPIAN STAFF DARES TO BE DIFFERENT

For the first time in many years the Olympian was reorganized. This reorganization came about through the efforts of fifteen students who realized a need for improved reader appeal.

Not only was the yearbook reorganized by the staff, but two phases of the yearbook production were changed also. First, the staff decided to present the elected senior superlatives to the student body in a special assembly program. Second, the administration arranged for a decrease in publication expense so as to allow Valentine Ball king and queen to be elected by the student body rather than by monetary voting.

The 1961 staff aspired to maintain the precedent set by the 1960 staff—that of winning top ratings.

James Merritt, assistant business manager, Kissy Chatfield, and Nan Lucas, business manager, work on bookkeeping.

Claire Franklin, Alice Barron, and Maxine Moffitt, editors of organizations, schedule pictures with James Merritt.

Kissy Chatfield, feature editor, Miss Outlaw, adviser, Kitty Hames, junior trainee, and Maxine Moffitt plan together to meet the deadlines.

Angie Shaw, Linda Wall, and Gary Cavitt, sports editors, produced football programs and edited the sports section.

COUNCIL MAKES CHANGE

The 1961 Student Council changed the tune to the Alma Mater. The same words were retained but the new tune, written by Franz Joseph Haydn, seemed to give dignity to the Alma Mater and at the same time make it easier to sing. Time will tell but at the present, indications are that this change was a wise one.

The Student Council upheld the Ten Point System. The Council interviewed all student leaders having above ten points and sought some solution to lighten their work. This distributed leadership among more of the students.

Student government is a vital part of the program at MHS, a fact which the students appreciate.

BETAS SERVE WELL

The Beta Club is an honor club open to those juniors and seniors who maintain an A average in academic subjects and who have A's in citizenship.

The purpose of the club is to promote the ideals of honesty, service, and leadership among the students of MHS, to encourage achievement, and to continue their education after high school.

In addition to initiating character development, members of Beta Club this year were active in contributing to needy families through community projects as well as doing school projects.

Beta Club had social functions as well as work projects. The Beta's were acquainted with the old saying, "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." They find this a deserving slogan.

CIVITANS ACHIEVE

The aims of the Junior Civitan Club are to promote good citizenship in the young people of the community; to foster the development of student leadership; and to take the initiative in serving the school and community.

The club is affiliated with the Civitan Club of Marietta, and with the Civitan International.

In upholding its purpose as a service club, members this year did ten projects including participation in daily ceremonies, contributing food to needy families, assisting faculty during pre-planning week and collecting money for retarded children throughout the community. This club has found itself many times recognized for its worthwhile services.

KEY CLUB PROMOTES IDEALS

Key Club is a Kiwanis-sponsored international organization for boys, its members being selected from the upperclassmen who are outstanding in school life.

The purposes of Key Club were evidenced this year through the projects done by the members. Cooperation was displayed in working with school authorities; at the same time that members were gaining experience in working together.

Initiative and leadership were developed by the members assisting sportscasters during football games. Community interest was instigated by participation in the International Key Club convention.

The members of Key Club endeavored to promote their ideals throughout MHS.

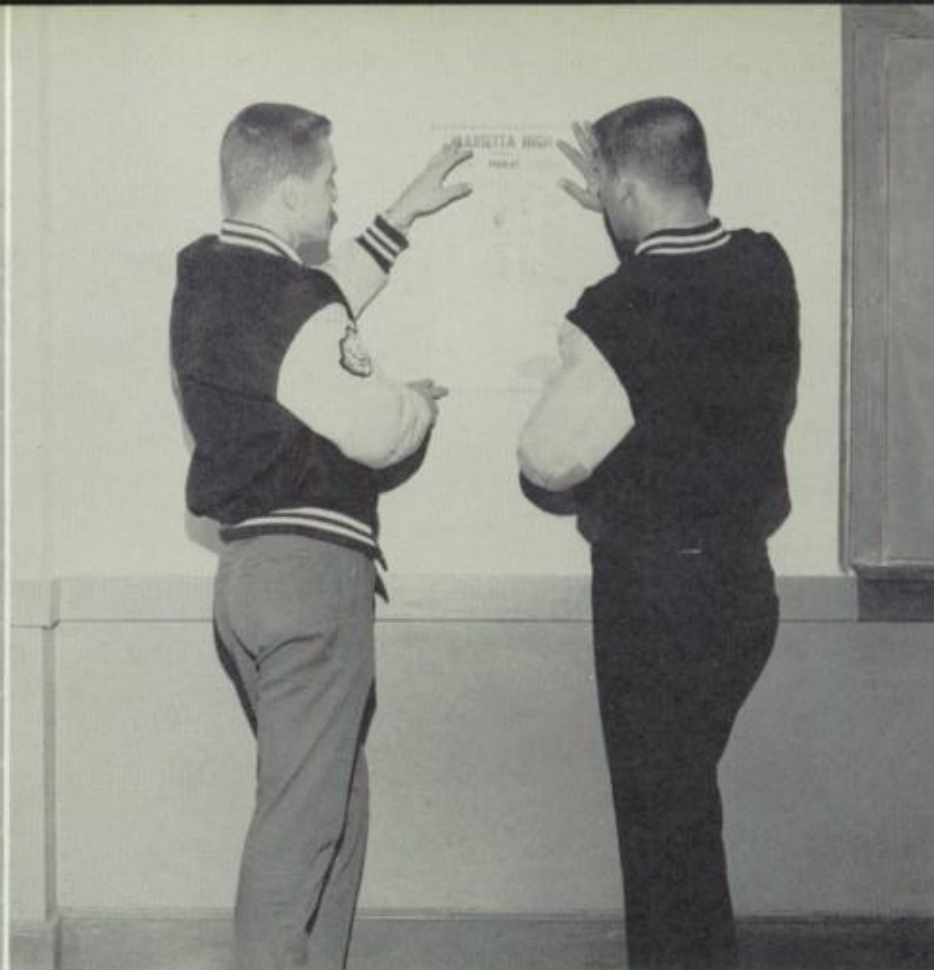

Tony Musarra, Ellis Ragland, Alfred Colquitt, and Jimmy Johnson, the officers of Key Club, plan one of their many service projects for this year.

Mr. Lonnie Love, Richard Burke, Mr. Ebby Lance, Alfred Colquitt, and Mr. George Griffin discuss some of their future plans before they have breakfast.

John Sherrod and Richard Smith are the president and vice president of "M" Club.

Hugh Durden and Doug Senter put up basketball schedules in the homerooms.

M CLUB IS ACTIVE

All students, girls and boys, who have earned the school letter for participation in one or more of the varsity sports—football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, or golf—are eligible for membership in "M" Club.

Besides the club's annual projects, the "M" Day Game, in which the varsity football teams divided up into two squads and played each other, and the "M"

Club vs. the faculty basketball game, the members tried to gain more support for the athletic teams and to foster a feeling of team and school spirit.

"M" Club sold concessions at basketball games, assisted the Pep Club in its goals and purpose of maintaining good sportsmanship.

DRAMA CLUB TAKES TRIP

The Drama Club at MHS serves as an opportunity for students to broaden their knowledge of stage productions and perfect their abilities in the theater arts. Membership was open to all students interested in learning to act.

Short plays, pantomime, and extemporaneous character portrayals occupied the club's agenda this year. A major attraction of Drama Club for members was the trip to the University of Georgia at Athens to observe a play given there.

Officers: Kathleen Lambert, secretary-treasurer; Angie Shaw, president; Sue Roberts and Dan Matthias, vice presidents demonstrate various smiles to the members of the club.

LIBRARY AIDES KEEP ORDER

The Library Aides are chosen for the purpose of helping the librarian, Miss Adalee Burrow, to keep the numerous reference books, magazines, and other materials well organized for the benefit of the MHS students. Any student is eligible to be an aide, provided he knows how to do the required work. They must know how to use the card catalog, how to locate books according to filing numbers, and be able to assist students in finding reference material. Besides the pleasure they receive from doing the work, aides get non-academic credit for their services.

Linda Colburn and Becky Brannen realize the importance of knowing how to use the card catalog well.

Miss Burrow, Linda Sue, and Roberta are justified in feeling proud of their work on this Christmas bulletin board.

The 1960-61 Pep Club was organized by the D.E.C. social club, in 1959, for the purpose of boosting school spirit, maintaining high standards of sportsmanship, and promoting student attendance at athletic games. The membership was open to any sports enthusiast. For projects, they made attractive posters to publicize sports events, and they assisted the athletic department by being ushers for these events.

STAMP — COIN CLUB AUCTIONS

The Stamp and Coin Club was organized in the fall of 1952 as a special interest club with meetings after school. The purpose of the club is to foster collections of coins and stamps, to acquire new facts about such hobbies, and to exchange stamps and coins among the club members.

Officers of the Stamp and Coin Club, Franklin Leiter, Bob Kile, Ellis Ragland, and David Mize, examine a collection of stamps and coins.

SCIENCE CLUB TRAVELS

The 1960-61 Science Club at MHS was composed of sophomore, junior, and senior students interested in capitalizing on the opportunities offered them by the sciences. It served as a supplement for their academic science courses and allowed them participation in activities offered only by more specialized branches of science.

The members made excursions to Stone Mountain, to the Okefenokee Swamp, and to the Indian Mounds at Cartersville, Georgia.

FNA BECOMES AMC

The two year old chapter of Future Nurses of America changed its name to Allied Medical Careers this year. This opened membership to students interested in any medical career rather than to nursing only.

To familiarize club members with medical professions, trips were made to various medical centers, and speakers from medical professions were invited to club meetings. The Medical Auxiliary, the club's sponsor, developed a training program for future nurses.

This year's officers were Suzanne Mitchell, Maxine Moffitt, Sue Abercrombie, and Eleta Cox.

FTA GAINS INSIGHT

Future Teachers of America is a club designed to acquaint the young person who wishes to become a teacher with his future profession. The club provides a well rounded program to stimulate the interest of the club members. Many of their speakers are teachers who are capable of showing them the various phases of teaching plus some of the awards and benefits received from teaching. Several of the club members were even able to go into the class room to gain a real insight to the teaching profession.

The Future Teachers Club has an annual project, the election of an Ideal Teacher of the Year. This teacher is chosen from the members of the Marietta High School faculty. The election is done by a poll of the members to see which teacher in their opinion, had given the greatest assistance in stimulating their interest in learning by training and friendship. Another of their projects was the window display in a downtown store for Junior Achievement Week.

FBLA SERVES SCHOOL

The Future Business Leaders of America is the national organization for students in business education. The plan of organization includes local chapters, a state chapter in each state and territory, and a national organization with headquarters at the Washington office of the U.B.E.A., the sponsoring organization.

The F.B.L.A. chapter worked on many worthwhile projects, designed to fulfill one or more of the twelve F.B.L.A. purposes, such as the development of responsibility and initiative, and the idea of community service.

This past year, as before, they presented a typewriter to the senior having the highest average in the Business Education Department. In addition, they sold football concessions and gave food to a needy family at Thanksgiving and Christmas. These were a few of their projects for this year.

Membership in F.B.L.A. is open to all students taking one or more subjects in the Commercial Department of Marietta High School.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR FHA

The Marietta Chapter of Future Homemakers of America has become so large in membership throughout the past few years that it was necessary to form two chapters. The chapters now are Junior F.H.A. with membership open to ninth grade homemaking students and Senior F.H.A. with membership open to the upper-class homemaking students. The purposes of National F.H.A. remain for both the Marietta Chapters.

The F.H.A. members serve Mrs. White, Mrs. Higgins and Miss Griffith at the Teachers' Tea.

CORRELATE PROJECTS

Both clubs parallel each other in doing community and school service projects. Among the most notable activities done this year by these clubs were the planning of the Mother-Daughter Banquets which stimulated interest in home entertaining; the participation on Youth Appreciation Week which gave members experience in leadership; and the entertaining of adults at faculty teas and at the dinner for the Board of Education.

DEC ASSISTS FACULTY

D.E.C., the symbol for the Double Eight Club, represents a group of sixteen students chosen from the upper classes by former members of the club. It functions primarily to promote activities which improve school spirit and enthusiasm.

This year, members of D.E.C. began work during pre-planning week as faculty assistants. They were active sponsors of Pep Club, and produced several school social functions.

DI-90'S WORK DILIGENTLY

The 1960-61 Di-Nineties Club upheld its organizational purpose, that of welcoming new girls to M.H.S., but along with this special purpose it also served the school well as a service club.

As a service club Di-Nineties Club assisted the faculty during pre-planning week, collected food and clothing for needy families, and worked on most of the special school functions. It also presented a formal dance for upperclassmen.

Officers Donna Mullinax, Julie Burn, Joye Lewis, and Dottie Golden plan interesting programs.

provide wholesome social experiences for the students.

The PS Club, composed of eighteen girls, four juniors and fourteen seniors, is also a social and a project group. The club meets on alternate Wednesdays after school hours in the homes of various girls.

Although the club was originated as a social group, it now maintains its affiliation with the school by the performance of various school and community projects.

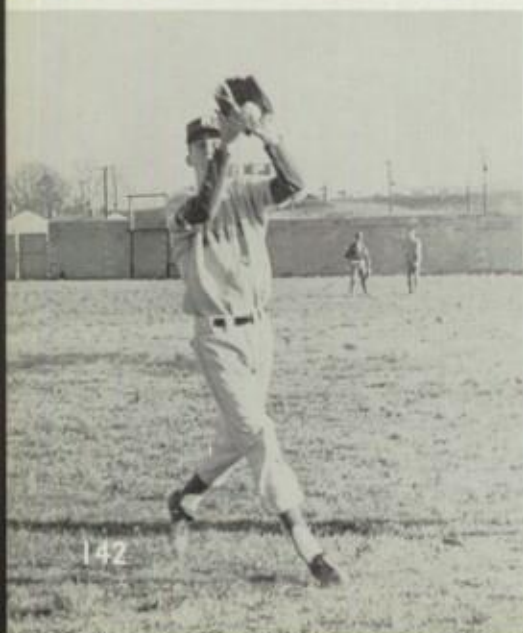

Tony, Nancy, Linda, Hugh, and Dan are busy raking leaves to raise money for PS.

Officers of PS Ann Cogburn, Judy Moran, and Kandy Crawford pose with their adviser Mrs. Morris and mascot, Dede Morris.

CHEERLEADERS

This year the cheerleaders played a big part in the complete athletic program of our school.

To be chosen cheerleader each girl was rated by all faculty members on honesty, enthusiasm, dependability, initiative, and academic ability. After this evaluation they "tried out" before a student-faculty board which rated them on their cheering ability. The final elimination was provided by the students in the spring.

Blue Devil cheerleaders welcome visitors.

Two bit, four bits—we all stood and yelled with our eight cheerful and vivacious cheerleaders. They encouraged school spirit and good sportsmanship among the students at MHS. These girls promote friendship.

BOOST SPIRIT

The honored position of Blue Devil Mascot is filled by a student who has shown abundant school spirit and loyalty plus the requirements for cheerleaders.

This year our cheers were led by Co-Captains Alicia Clotfelter and Patty Boswell and Cheerleaders: Carole Noble, Linda Smith, Dianne Watkins, Nanci Ham, Carol Joiner, and Linda Mathis. Martha Hudgins was our Blue Devil Mascot.

MANAGERS HELPED . . .

The 1960 gridiron season was a time for building and learning for the Varsity Blue Devils. The season began with a group of relatively inexperienced boys handling the pigskin—quite obvious since fourteen varsity players from their champion team graduated in 1960.

The team started the season with a 20-0 win over Osborne, but the two following games found it trailing Druid Hills 7-0 and Russell 7-6. The Blue Devils seemed to resent these petty scores and proved it in the fourth game by sailing over Sprayberry 38-6. The Devils, recharged by their victory, marched on to crush our arch rival Campbell, 31-0. In spite of a comeback the squad could not hold South Cobb back and as a result suffered a 6-0 setback. True to their pattern the Blue Devils bounced right back after the defeat by South Cobb to massacre the Cherokee Warriors 21-0. In the eighth game the Varsity Blues were handed a 20-0 upset by the Griffin Eagles. The boys came alive in the next game to romp over tough GMA with a score of 19-7. The season ended with a victorious Homecoming game. The Devils defeated the Decatur Bulldogs 19-7.

A great deal of credit is due the team itself for the fine winning record compiled through the season. To recognize the outstanding grid players would be to name almost every member of the Blue Devil Squad. Yet these names seem to stand out in particular: Richard Smith, Eddie Gosha, Doug Senter, Tony Mussarra, Terry Fulmer, Hugh Durden, Lloyd Shankles, John Sherrod, James Fowler, and Jimmy Garner.

Through the history of Marietta's athletic program the Blue Devils have been very fortunate to have well qualified coaches training them. This year is no exception. French Johnson, the head coach and athletic director, has been at Marietta for five years. Throughout his career with the Blue Devils he has achieved a victorious record. Assisting Mr. Johnson were backfield coach, J. L. Jones and end coach Dan Theodocian. These men realized the handicap of the 1960 team even last year and began preparation for building the new team. All their efforts were not in vain—a 6-4 record speaks well when one considers the narrow margin by which three of the four losses were missed.

Kenneth Andrews and Jackie Burrell help the coach comfort Rusty.

JUNIOR VARSITY TEAM AND

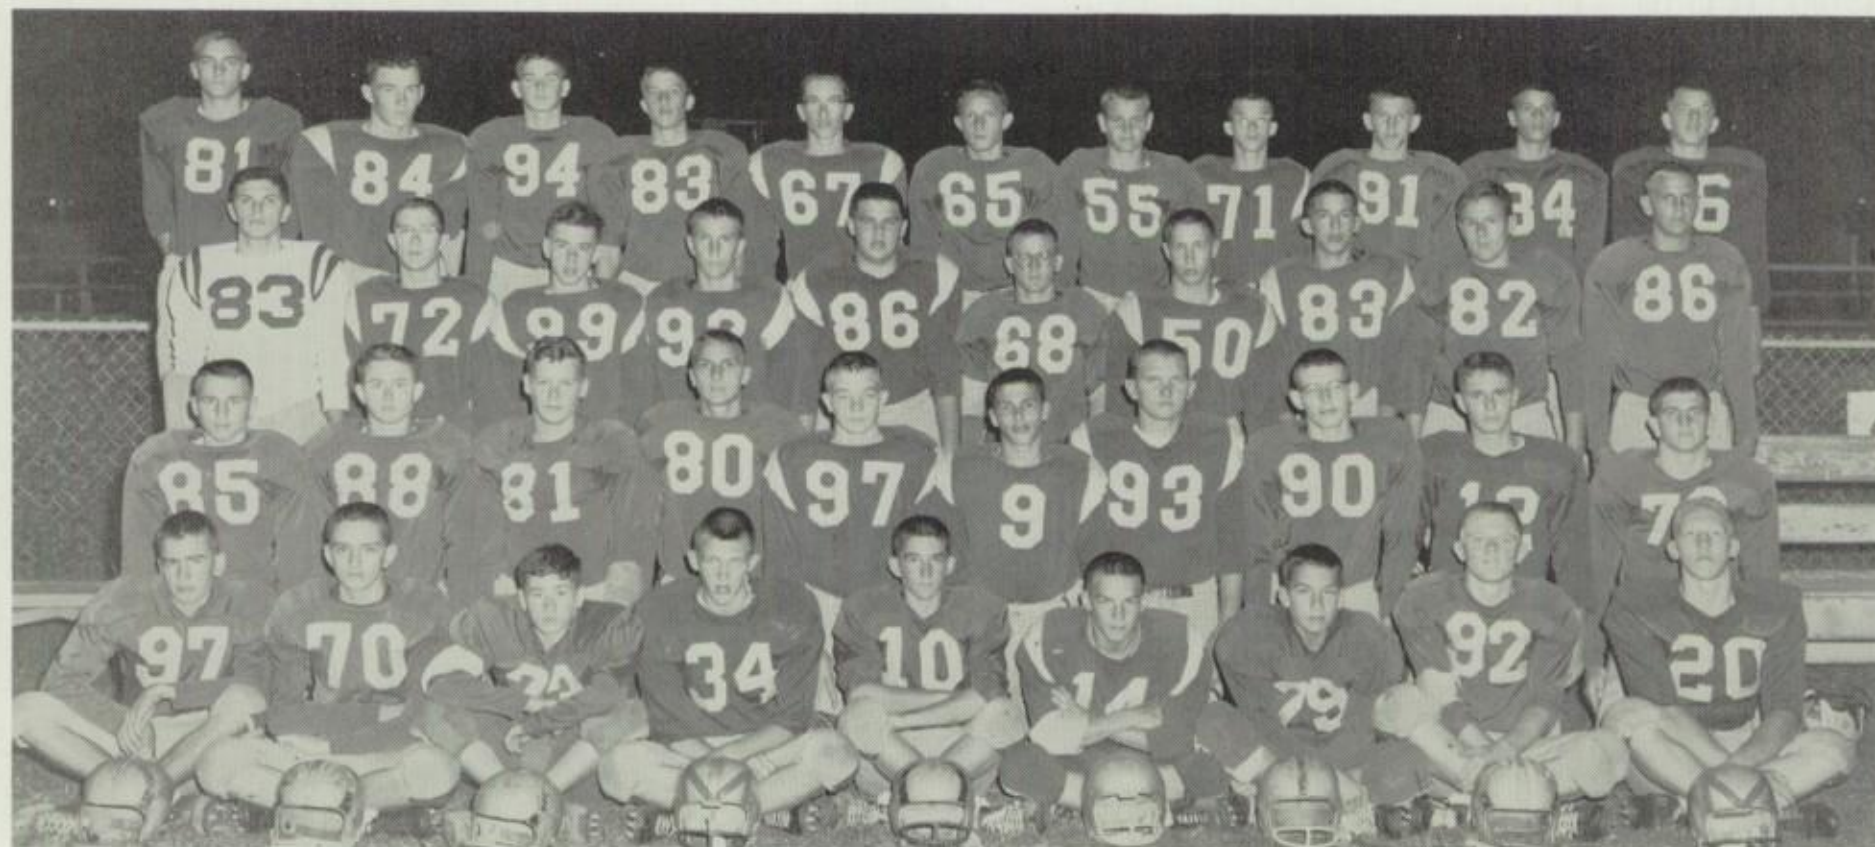

Coaches Funderburk and Ruggles plan season's schedule.

The Baby Imps, coached by James Ruggles and E. M. Funderburk, achieved their most impressive record. The Junior Devils led by the Co-captains, Pepper Kelly and Ken Cosey, marched to a 6-1 record. In the opening game the squad was handed its only defeat by the rugged Marist Cadets, 0-24. The second game with Osborne was canceled because of rain. In the third game the Devils returned, fired-up to down the South Cobb Eagles, 7-0. With this victory under their belts, they then encountered the Cherokee Warriors, soaring to a 12-0 victory. The Junior Devils next faced their neighboring rivals, Campbell, in a game sponsored by the Shriners. The Imps battled to a 6-0 win. In the sixth game of the season, the B-Team opposed the tough G.M.A. Cadets, coached by Marion Blume, former MHS coach. The Devils took to the air defeating G.M.A. 6-0. The Junior Varsity's next prey was Sprayberry, which they crushed, 12-0. In the final game of the season the Blue Devils swamped Campbell 32-0. This dazzling performance marked the sixth straight "Whitewash" which the Imps grabbed during the successful 1960-61 grid season.

The B-Team football and basketball teams were cheered from the sidelines by eight B-Team cheerleaders this year. These girls from the junior and sophomore classes were chosen by the same methods as were the Varsity Squad.

VARSITY REBUILDS

The 1960-61 season gave the Devilettes a great deal of experience which they lacked at the first of the season. The Graduating class left only four returning lettermen, all forwards. The defense lost five of their outstanding guards and the offense lost two forwards. During the first of the season Dottie DiLetto was changed to a guard and she proved she could do her job well in either position. Dottie, along with Bobbie Davison, Pat Darby, and Nancy Slaughter, gave many of their opponents a rough time. Gwen Wells did a fine job as forward with a 16.1 average and a total of 327 points for the season. Sandra Barmore was another strong arm with a 13.4 average and a total of 251 points. Jeannie Hicks and Betsy Ector proved their versatility and speed by alternating in forward and guard positions. They were valuable to the team in many of the games. Mary Ann Holland scored for the Devilettes many times with her outside shots. Although the Devilettes' season record was not outstanding their hard work showed up in the regional tournaments when they lost to Athens by only three points in an over-time. They were a team that never stopped trying throughout the entire season.

It's another two points for Betsy.

Sandra ties up the ball while Betsy and Sharon come to aid her.

Betsy drives around two fast moving guards for a shot.

Gwen blocks another attempt to score.

Devilettes and spectators anxiously await Betsy's shot.

Hey! Let go! That's my ball," yells Sandra.

Rusty leaps high to snag a rebound for the Devils.

Benny steals the ball away from an opponent to prevent his scoring.

Coach Anderson takes full advantage of time out.

The 1960-61 boys' varsity basketball team ended a successful season winning sixteen games while losing only nine. This most impressive record was spearheaded by Coach Anderson, who worked faithfully with his squad.

The varsity squad saw only two returning lettermen from the last year's team—Larry Bagby and Rusty Sellars. The majority of the boys were inexperienced, but by hard work and concentrated effort they were able to perform more than adequately.

Through the leadership of outstanding players, Larry Bagby, Beverly, Nuss and Vaughn, the team was able to maintain a good record. The leading scorer, Larry Bagby, "swished" the Devils to many deserved victories. Beverly proved to be a great asset to the team by his skillful ball-handling. Vaughn showed his ability to toe the mark under pressure. Nuss, the smallest member of the squad, displayed his skill and speed throughout the season.

The squad entered the regional playoff with high spirits. In the first game with R. E. Lee the Devils were victorious. The Devils were handed a defeat by the Marist Cadets. This performance completed the triumphant season for our Champs.

Boys, don't just look at that unclaimed ball—Go after it, Devils, and score another basket.

MARIETTA B-TEAMS

The B-team girls had a profitable season with a four win-two loss record. The entire squad was made up of freshmen and sophomores. Many of the girls on the team were new this year. They developed their skill and speed to become a very well balanced team.

The B-teams were awarded letters for the first time this year. Those to receive them were forwards Sharon Kirk, Nancy Mayes, and Marcelle Black. The guards were Ansley Little, Joann Wilson, and Nanci Lewis. Susie Homans, Carla Harshbarger, and Ann Parker worked diligently during the season.

GAIN EXPERIENCE

The boys' B-team, including sub-freshmen, freshmen, and sophomores, enjoyed a profitable season this year. The boys finished with an eight win-ten loss record; but in eight of their losing games they were defeated by small margins. Nine lettered and many of these hope to return next year or to be promoted to the varsity squad.

The B-team boys, coached by J. L. Jones, concentrated on the fundamentals of basketball in order to prepare for their coming years. They also gained invaluable experience in practice sessions and games.

BASEBALL TEAM BUILDS FOR THE FUTURE

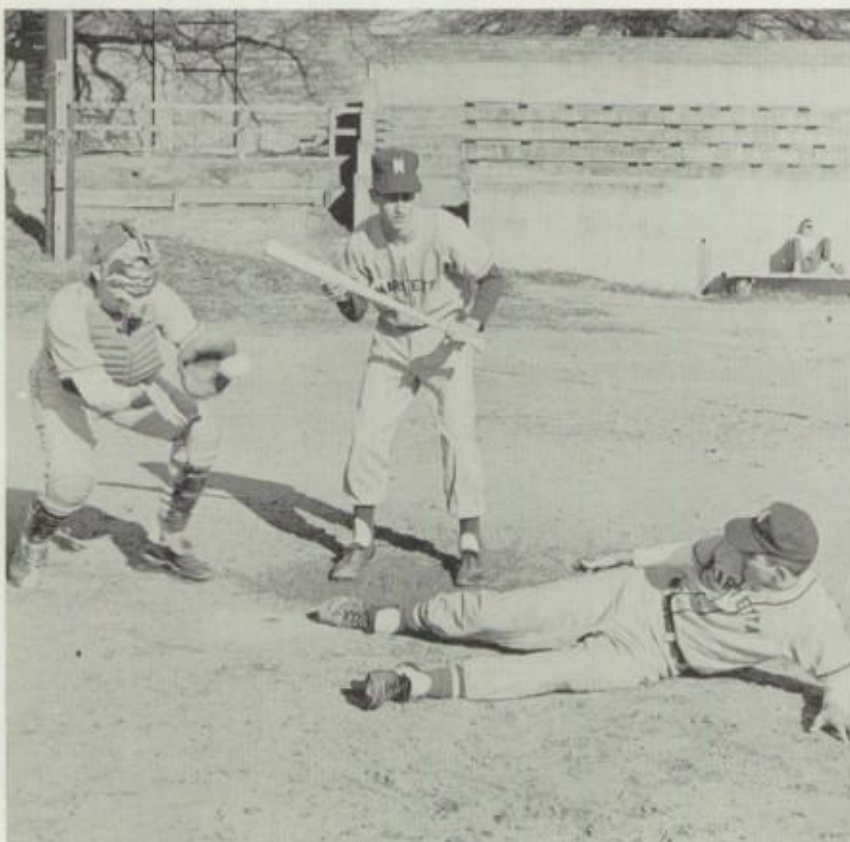

Practices for baseball team began in March with five returning lettermen. A large number of freshmen and sophomores were out for the team and many of them played this season. Because of the inexperience of these young boys, this year was one of building for coming years.

Rotating on the mound were Larry Stephens, Benny Beverly, and Jackie Smallwood. Behind home base were catchers Cliff Hammonds and Terry Fulmer. Defending first base were Jackie Smallwood and John Groover. Second basemen were Merrill Nuss and Mike Clotfelter. Third basemen were Benny Beverly and Walter Anderson. Short stops were Larry Stephens and Walter Evans. James Holcombe, Mike Martin, Doug Whitten, and Bill Payne worked as outfielders.

For the second year Coach Dan Theodocian assisted Coach Andy Anderson in leading the boys.

As the 3:30 bell rings in the afternoon, the students swarm through the doorways, scramble to their cars, and battle the heavy traffic to the various businesses of Marietta. The students are often negligent of the property and patience of the local merchants; however, there remains a feeling of harmony between the two. Through their tolerance, the storekeepers allow the students to burn up that excess energy with mischievous stunts. These storekeepers are the ones who have helped to make this annual possible for you.
